Much Needed Hall For Vulcan Discussed In Parliament

E. G. Hansell M.P. Points Out No Appropriation Included In 1947 Estimates

The matter of a drill hall for Vulcan was brought up last week on the floor of the House of Commons by E. G. Hansell, M.P. In a speech on that occasion he reviewed the application made for the drill hall and called to the attention of the House the fact that he had interviewed two Ministers of National Defence as well as other officials over the past two years respecting the matter and that it had been understood that Vulcan was to have a drill hall. "The people of Vulcan seemed quite happy about it," said Mr. Hansell, "Imagine our disappointment when we learned that no appropriation had been included in the 1947 estimates."

It is understood that an amount of $32,000, had been included in last years estimates but the fact that no contractor had submitted a bid, the amount reverted to the public treasury. No similar amount had been included in this years estimates.

Mr. Hansell urged that a similar amount be included in the supplementary estimates and failing this the Government move the recreation hall from the Vulcan Air Port to Vulcan as a temporary measure.

The Minister of National Defence gave as the reason for omitting this from the 1947 estimates as being that the Government had changed its policy this year in regard to drill halls. Owing to the housing shortage they had decided to divert monies previously designated for drill halls to the building of living quarters for army personnel.

Mr. Hansell showed in his speech the commendable war record of the Vulcan community in the purchase of war bonds, red cross work and salvage. He also pointed to the war memorial which has inscribed on it the names of thirty three young men who had given their lives during the war. "In spite of this war record," said Mr. Hansell, "To my knowledge the community of Vulcan has never asked the Federal Government for a nickel for public buildings. The community has always been on the contributing end of the nation's business. We are proud of that and I don't want to leave the impression that we are now asking for any favours. The community is merely asking that we might assist in our national defence program and that it be permitted to give that assistance under the most adequate conditions."

Hon. Brooke Claxton the Minister of National Defence in reply said, "I can assure the Hon. member for Macleod that the matter is receiving the most active consideration. We have not yet reached the point where we can carry out the alternative he mentioned. Wherever it is possible we will do that, and when later on circumstances permit I hope we shall be able to proceed with a long term programme of construction."

Col. Merritt M.P. well known V.C. of the last war followed Mr. Hansell's speech and supported him in his request.

It is generally believed that lumber prices have reached their peak and any further price charges will be downward.

Large Building Program For Vulcan

Splendid progress is now being made in the Donnelly bowling alley and Treasury Branch on main street. Work, too, is now well under way on the Hanna and Mackay homes. Ron Buehler and Pete Schuler will shortly have houses they have purchased and brought to town for remodelling. Ron has already completed a very fine basement. The basement for Charlie Fulton's new home is practically ready to start pouring cement. Lawrence Ottensell is waiting for materials to begin work on his basement.

Enjoy Motor Trip Through States

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Atkinson returned last week from a motor trip through Eastern Canada and the States. They report that the crops in the Vulcan district are far advanced compared with the Dakotas. They saw corn still being planted there, owing to the large rainfall. On their 6000 mile trip they had no tire trouble at all and a remarkable thing is that they came home as they left, on Vulcan water and air.

Local Cadets Report Good Time

Various highlights will long be remembered by all the cadets. A few of these are mentioned rather briefly.

On Friday evening the Sarcee tribe of Indians, comprising young and old of both sexes in full costume, staged a Pow Wow on the Battalion parade square, giving various dances, songs and other types of entertainment. Capt. Don Oakes as Master of Ceremonies called on several of the officers, including Col. Jull, Major Mahoney, V.C., Capt. Davies and others, to join in the "Owl Dance". The efforts of these officers were appreciated by the Cadets and the goodly crowd of spectators who came out from Calgary for the occasion. Several of the cadets were so inspired by their officers that they availed themselves of the opportunity of dancing with the charming Indian maidens in an encore of the same dance. Colonel Jull, the Camp Commandant, is an honorary Chief of the Sarcees.

The active service troops from Currie Barracks staged a demonstration showing a platoon in attack against a position, using their auxiliary weapons. The cadets were particularly impressed with the accuracy of the fire by the 3 inch mortar and the six-pounder. The heavy accurate smoke screen, the speed of the Bren carriers, the use of the walkie talkies and the running commentary over a P. A. System made the demonstration a particularly impressive one. Afterwards, each cadet was given a ride in the carriers.

Later each cadet fired the two-inch mortar and the Bren gun. Sunday morning was occupied with Church parade and the afternoon by sports. After a demonstration of tanks, each cadet was given an opportunity to have a ride in the General Sherman Tanks.

On Monday all Cadets in camp were transported into Calgary to attend the Stampede. One Platoon was chosen to represent the Cadets in the Parade. Four of the Vulcan group were in this group, these being Arthur Chell, Wendell Wolfe, Gordon Nault and Ralph Walker.

The demonstration of the 25 pounder Artillery gun attracted a lot of attention, and they could be heard quite plainly in Calgary. One Cadet reported next morning that he was shell-shocked but

Wedding Bells

PELICAN RAPIDS—A pretty home wedding was solemnized Thursday evening at 7:30 at the Roy Hanson home when his sister, Miss Lillie Hanson, became the bride of Emil Olson of Vulcan, Alberta, Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hanson attended the couple. The bride wore a blue crepe silk dress and her corsage was pink rose buds. Mrs. Hanson's dress was grey eyellet and her corsage was pink snap dragons.

A reception for 24 guests followed. A beautiful wedding cake made by Mrs. Floyd McDunn served as a centerpiece at the prettily appointed table. The couple will spend a few days at a Lake Lida cottage before leaving for their home at Vulcan where the groom is in the implement business. The bride has spent most of her life here but has been employed at Washburn, N. D., and more recently at Anoka in abstract offices.

COMING INTO THEIR OWN

GREAT progress has been made during the past decade in bringing the teaching profession and nursing to a higher level of financial reward. With the prevailing scale of pay, it can no longer be said that these professions do not pay enough to be attractive to ambitious young people. There has been long and strenuous struggle to win the financial recognition that prevails today. It is to be hoped that the young people who are reaping the benefit of these early struggles will appreciate what has been done in their interest. It is to be hoped that they give as good service as have their underpaid over-worked predecessors.

Unless cost-of-living increases substantially over present figures, a basic wage for teachers of $1300 seems quite adequate. After all the first two or three years of teaching are a proving period, a period of apprenticeship to test the embryo teacher's fitness for the calling. Much more important even than fair basic salary is the recognition which is being given generally to proved ability. There is added remun-

Polishing Up E.P. Local Cadets For the Movies

Arthur Taylor has the responsibility of polishing up the E.P. ranch for the arrival of the movie company that has chosen the E.P. as setting for the picture "Wild Conquest." Jack Oakie, Joan Leslie, James Craig and so on are in the cast.

As a matter of fact the Duke of Windsor gave the O.K. last fall for repainting and general overhaul of the ranch home and adjacent buildings. But it was impossible to do the work last fall owing to weather conditions.

It is almost 20 years since the E. P. was painted and prettied up, according to Arthur Taylor who will have a crew of four or five men on the job.

a check-up revealed that he just had a dislike for doing dishes.

The demonstration of three-inch mortar, sten and piat gun was the first time that many of the cadets had seen these weapons.

All cadets went on an over night bivouac, making a bed of spruce boughs and rolling up in their blankets. On the way back to camp they made an attack on Weasel Head bridge. During the night the Princess Pats carried out night manoeuvres, and the sky was filled with star shells and signal flares. An amusing incident occurred during the small hours of the morning when one of the officers was caught in a Booby trap that he had helped the cadets to make.

The 80 mile an hour wind Thursday night blew over several tents and buildings. Other than some extra work, no casualties were suffered however.

Friday proved a very full day. In the morning the Director of Cadet Services for Canada inspected the battalion and camp area. This was followed by a demonstration and lecture by the Engineers, and a film and lecture by the R.C.M.P. At one o'clock the team of Danish athletes, comprising twenty boys and twenty girls, staged an hours performance of athletics. For many this was the highlight of the camp. This was followed by the finals of the Track and field meet and team events. Vulcan received a great deal of publicity when Cadet Arthur Chell took firsts in four events, the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the 440 yard dash and the Running Broad Jump. This netted him the highest number of points of any cadet in camp and won for him the Royal Canadian Army Cadet Track and Field Meet Champions eration for experience, and for extra qualifications with which the teacher equips herself or himself. Academic standing pays off to some extent in higher salaries.

The spread between minimum and maximum still seems too small, considering the difference in real value between the fledgling and the instructor or proved competence. It is to be hoped that this feature will be stressed in future. There must be a good basic salary to induce young people to take up the profession. But there must also be increasing compensation to keep them loyally and vigorously within the profession throughout a lifetime.

In respect to nursing there have been similar increases in salary in recent years, but perhaps the most notable advance has been banishment of the slavish 12 hour shifts, and establishment of eight hour days. In other respects the arduous duties of nurses have been generally lightened through the years, so that girls of good physical stamina, and a liking for the calling can enter training with assurance of a well paid future.

If young people are not interested in entering these occupations today, it is not because there is no money inducement. Some other reason must be sought. They may be attracted to other employment for expression of some specific outstanding talent. They may be looking for less responsible types of work. The young men may see promise of better returns in trades or in business than in teaching.

But it is well to remember that these two professions are basic. Teachers and nurses are always needed, and hence are not subject to the fluctuations existing in many other occupational lines. The concessions which have been gained in "good" years, should be maintained in less prosperous times, because quality in teaching and also in nursing are an essential to society.

Items From Bob Edwards' Inimitable "Eye Opener"

In the High River Eye Opener of August 10, 1903, Bob Edwards dabbles gently in the social and business life of High River. He puts in a good plug for the brilliant and unselfish newspaper publishers as able representatives in parliament. And to balance things he goes after Mlle Rheo, the most colossal palmist fake in history, operating gloriously in Calgary.

The High River polo warriors have been in Calgary this week taking part in the polo tournament which runs for four days. Like the crusaders in their expeditions against the Turks they were bent on conquest. It might be called a wild game pursued with curious subtlety.

tions between the editor and his public who may hardly even know him by sight are of the most friendly and intimate character. It is as if they'd known each other a long while.

How then does it come about, that when an election happens along and the hour strikes for the best brains available nominating conventions never happen to think of our modest and retiring newspaper men? It would certainly be a real treat to see the people, for once, getting real live representation by capable men who have no axe to grind and no ambition to promote, and who as a class have the distinction of being unselfish and indifferent to material interest.

As the preachers say, we leave this thought with you. Take it home and cook it for supper. Hi, there, come back. For fear of being misunderstood we must remind you that we are referring only to men connected with dailies, not little country weeklies.

Mlle. Rheo

The most-colossal of all fakes, Mlle. Rheo, the palmist, has been sewing up the easy proposition of Calgary in Room 87 of the Alberta hotel. We enjoy seeing Calgary, a town of imperfectly educated and sparsely travelled suckers, getting tangled up with this sort of sideshow from an up-country fair. It may impress on their minds, once and for all, that they are nothing but common garden chumps.

Any smooth guy, man or woman, can strike Calgary at any given moment and make a killing. The Madame was up in Edmonton. She made her fare. We wish her well in her travels because she is a smart young woman, pleasant spoken and possessed of the true old Chicago South Clark method of jollying the sloppifactors out of one dollar a head. Even R. B. Bennett and Jerry Boyce, neither of them celebrated as suckers, fell into the meshes of her net.

This is the worst fake at present operating in the Territories. We asked Rheo to strike a horoscope on the Eye Opener. She quietly declined, and we backed out of No. 37, and fainted in the arms of French Johnnie, who was waiting outside.

Sloppy Housekeepers

"Many wines at the wretched appearance we Canadian put up at more than one point of entry to this country," comments The Financial Post. "Sometimes it's government fault. More often it is citizen sloppiness and what seems to be almost a national disease, laziness about painting."

"Tourist business is of great importance. Towns and cities and areas all over the country are constantly shouting their attractions. Attractions they indeed have, but the drab, dingy, miserably-kept appearance that characterizes so many of our communities doesn't help our cause."

"We Canadians keep our chests far out on the conviction that we're great folks. But the truth is that, as a people, we are pretty sloppy housekeepers."

Infantile Paralysis

Medical men who believe infectious diseases move in cycles are apprehensive of an epidemic of poliomyelitis this year. The last big epidemic was in 1937.

The most vulnerable age group is from 4 to 9 years, though adults are by no means immune. There have been a few cases to date in Canada, the majority in the Vancouver area developing since June 1. These cases were extremely mild.

Infantile paralysis is spread by people who carry the germ although they may not themselves suffer from the disease. It may be transmitted by infected persons through sneezing, coughing or talking. The germ can also be caught by eating or drinking from utensils which have been handled by infected persons.

Black rats arrived in Calgary by trains with some of the Midway shows of the Stampede and there's been a great furore of chasing.

Hunting Reds May Boomerang

(From Maclean's Magazine) --

Demands have been multiplying lately for Government action to "stamp out" Communism. Some people would put all Communists in jail, others would be content if they were purged from the civil service.

We think these witch hunts are a mistake. In the long run they defeat their own ends.

In practice you can't "outlaw" Communism. We tried it during the war and what happened? While the Communist Party was still illegal the active Communist leaders eluded their way into the front seat of a "Win the War" movement. Under a new name, but with no other attempt at disguise, the party elected to Parliament a man since jailed as a spy.

"Purging" the Reds from the civil service sounds fine—but how will you identify your Reds? They don't wear party buttons in their lapels. If we decided to fire every man who had ever let his name be linked with a pro-Soviet movement we'd have to begin by firing the Prime Minister. And if we decided to fire men on the private advice of the RCMP we might have some difficulty in explaining to a foreigner, the difference between this method and those of the NKVD.

But even in cases where it's feasible, political persecution is a boomerang. Look at the Winnipeg strike of 26 years ago. These prairie revolutionaries, these subversive characters who were jailed for their sinister opinions—what became of them? Before they died they were elected to political office—as alderman, M.L.A. or M.P. Today's political criminal is tomorrow's martyr.

Start persecuting a man for his beliefs and you automatically make friends for him among all who stand for liberty.

Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, by a few acts of capricious tyranny, has done more good to Jehovah's Witnesses than the Witnesses themselves could do in years of mission work.

Let's not do Communism the same favor.

The Advocate staff cannot make a house-to-house canvass for news every week, but we are always glad to have it phoned or handed in. We want all the news and are just as pleased to mention your guests or your visits as those of your neighbors—but maybe your neighbors co-operated with us in getting the facts. Phone your items in or drop them in at the office—as early in the week as possible. Your co-operation will be appreciated.

Best Foods For Overseas Gifts

An article in last week's Times with experiences of Mrs. Dan McNiven on her ten months' visit overseas, contained also a number of suggestions on suitable foods to send to the old country. There have been a number of expressions of appreciation for Mrs. McNiven's suggestions. Those with relatives overseas are frequently sending food parcels, and organizations also are sending food shipments to relieve the grim monotonous diet.

Mrs. J. W. Bainbridge, who is constantly sending parcels, adds a few further hints. Experience has taught her that it is often disastrous to put other stuff in with canned goods, especially goods in paper packages, or even fairly stiff cartons. No matter how firmly packed the tin cans tend to rub

What Tourists Like

A party of tourists coming through from across the line stopped at a service station in Macleod. They asked a girl attendant where they should go to eat. She asked them what they wanted as a main dish. They said "Steak of course." So she gave them the name of a restaurant excelling in steaks, and told them the cut to order for happiest result. They followed her advice, and were delighted. Not least of their satisfaction was the modest cost of the meal. It was 65 cts. at Macleod and would have been $2.00 across the line. They appreciated the interest of the garage attendant, and the good tip she gave them on where to eat and what to ask for.

Against other things, so that pudding powders, cocoa, packages of tea, even sugar, are apt to reach their destination burst open. There is always the risk of rough handling and then the disappointment both to donors and recipients if things do not carry safely.

From acknowledgements received for personal gifts, and gifts from church organizations, Mrs. Bainbridge says that white flour is a great treat, because flour in use in England makes dark bread or biscuits. Packages of "tea Bisk" are also welcomed. All kinds of dried fruits—prunes, peaches, dates, figs, mixed peel, currants, raisins, etc. fill a great blank. The allowance of cooking fats is so meagre that Crisco or some form of cooking fat is greatly valued. Fudding powders, tea, cocoa, sugar in any form are amongst most desirable; and of course any form of soap so long as it is shipped separately from eatables.

A recent letter which she received in acknowledgment of a church parcel refers most gratefully to tinned fruit. The writer says "I do believe the cans of fruit are appreciated the most. They are such a luxury here, so scarce, and requiring so many points, that most of us have our points used up long before we can aspire to canned fruit. Cocoa and coffee are plentiful and unrationed. The tin of honey was also most welcome and we divided it up in small jars, a little each for many families."

The cost of sending foods across with regularity is quite an item, so it becomes very important that there be no loss of foods. Careful packing is essential, and it would be well to keep in mind the risk of mixing tin cans with less substantially wrapped articles.

Any further suggestions re parcels for Britain will be welcomed by the Times.

That Alberta Dish

(Lethbridge Herald)
We don't think that anything more characteristic of the Province which was the cradle of ranching in Western Canada could have been chosen for "Alberta's National Dish" than "Grilled Alberta Gold Medal Ranch Steak." It's as Albertan as Alberta. Now the only thing we have to do is to see that the tourists get grilled Alberta ranch steaks that are worthy of the name.

The steak and prime ribs of beef are, without a doubt, Alberta delicacies, and properly prepared they are Alberta food at its best. For here in Alberta we have the largest herds of beef cattle in Canada, grown primarily and solely for the fine meats they know how to produce from Alberta grass, Alberta alfalfa and Alberta grain. What is more, we have learned the art of fitting Alberta beef cattle for market. They are not the long-legged greyhounds which go by the name of beef cattle in some countries—they are the super de luxe, down-to-the-ground makers of prime beef which are produced only by ranchers and farmers who have a pride in their industry.
